Another Appeal from Shreveport

WASHINGTON, Sept 16 —Senator West to-day received the following dispatch from the Mayor of Shreveport

"Sickness is on the increase Deaths on [illegible] for us There is no money in the city treasury The poor are on our hands and [illegible] funds we find difficulty in borrowing them"

Fearful Ravages of Yellow Fever.

SHREVEPORT, Sept. 17 —The Times this morning says "The number of deaths is fearful to contemplate and the mortality beyond precedent It looks as though but few comparatively get well. Thus far very few have got about, while some linger along between life and death In some few instances whole families have been swept out of existence in the short space of one week A sudden change in the weather last Sunday sent scores to their beds, which accounts for the large number of interments in the last two days They are dropping off like sheep with the rot Medical treatment of the most skillful kind does not appear to do any good in a great many cases, while in many others the temporary relief afforded is quickly followed by death Our stores are all closed, and all dwelling houses are turned into hospitals. In fact Shreveport is one great hospital—one great charnel-house, and the Times merely a death record."

This same journal says the number of interments since the first of September foot up 228 and the number of sick is variously estimated at from 500 to 800

[illegible] of the Yellow Fever.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 17 —A Picayune special from Shreveport the 16th, says the number of new [illegible] of yellow fever to-day is less than for several preceding days, and the number of interments reduced from 35 to 25 to-day It is not thought, however that there is any abatement, but the material for fever to work on is considerably diminished

The Governor of Sonora Complains of our Wards.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—Commissioner Smith, of the Indian Bureau, replied to-day to a late communication from the Governor of Sonora, Mexico relative to Apache raiders on Sonora that great misapprehension had existed in regard to the negotiations made with Cachise by General Howard These negotiations never took the form of a treaty but Cachise agreed, in consideration of receiving rations from the Government and other help by which he should be able to live without plunder, to desist from depredations in that country That Cachise understood this agreement is evident from the fact that he has frequently restrained some members of his band who desired to raid on Mexico and ordered from their reservations other Indians who had come in with booty, evidently from Sonora desiring to trade with his own band, and, furthermore, Cachise had expressed his readiness to join the U S forces to pursue and capture a band of fifty marauding Indians who had abandoned their friends and reservations

THE SCHOOL READERS

[illegible]

SALEM, Sept [illegible]

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN [illegible] took [illegible] I [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] Mr [illegible] in some [illegible] which [illegible] in [illegible] assertions which [illegible] fairly indicate that advanced state of disease [illegible] mental [illegible] and [illegible] hood he leaves me in a very uncertain state of mind as to whether [illegible] tendering that it would be but merciful to [illegible] over this [illegible] or otherwise a pedagogue of a [illegible] time who [illegible] [illegible] methods [illegible] in the schools of the rural districts of half a century since and therefore not responsible for his peculiar ideas, and should be kindly dealt with After looking it all over again I am inclined to think I should do him injustice if I did not write him in the latter category, and in order to save him from making such egregious blunders again I'll post him a little and for the sake of the good will I owe humanity in general and him in particular This funny old friend of mine can't see that it follows that, as doctors don't make good poets to speak of or poets very good ship builders, it probably takes educators to write good school books He asks me to name a series of readers in use in this State the author of which has been a teacher, just as a matter of information to him Certainly I will, and glad to oblige you

I'll begin by naming Wilson's Sanders McGuffey's and the National series and then I'll add every other one of any considerable note in use in the United States and to this list I'll add almost every school book of note of any kind, of which I have ever heard

For your further information I'll mention the fact that Horace Mann, Louis Agassiz Thomas H Huxley and John Tyndall—all great teachers—are the authors of school books and all bear testimony that it is a task of grave difficulty to prepare good ones Mr Simpson and Dr Patterson probably find no such difficulty in the way of their undertaking but I would recommend my paternal friend to examine their craniums and see if certain bumps on the tops thereof are not developed to such an extent that they would probably not observe small blemishes in their own work My friend takes exceptions to my assertion that there is a lack of moral tone and but one bare recognition of Deity in these books I turn to his references and in the First Reader I find a short story about pounding a dog and catching a rat, surmounted by a picture of a dog worrying a pig and a cat in the act of seizing a rat, while a man looks on and swings a club over his head and enjoys the scene with ferocious delight I turn to his first reference in the Second Reader and find a picture of a cock fight, with a story in relation thereto Now I am not a prophet neither yet a son of a prophet but I can give a very accurate guess from all this, as to the character of the Sunday amusements practiced by your school-mates within the sacred precincts of that log school house some three-quarters of a century since from which you imbibed your moral tone I have looked through the books again, and with them before me I again assert that there is not the slightest recognition of a God, except in one place, and that in connection with the noble red man The moral stories are of the character I have indicated above I see but one sign of progression in the ideas of this sage schoolmaster he agrees to my proposition that the best teachers should teach in the primary departments but I am afraid that even this shadow of budding ideas is only the effect of his long personal experience therein

The following is an extract from a circular issued by A L Bancroft & Co , now before me

Our attention has been kindly called to a criticism which has been made on the Pacific Coast First and Second Readers to the effect that they are lacking in lessons suited to moral training and in a proper recognition of Deity

Then follows a promise to revise &c and it may be that my friend has found some old copies of the books as amended and the publishers seeing that Dr Patterson had made a fatal blunder have made some judicious selections from the Sunday school books to propitiate the orthodox

Let us examine the position of the Superintendent of Public Instruction in regard to this matter—not that this ought to be a personal discussion but of course the action of the County Superintendents will be very materially influenced by the recommendation of the State Superintendent and their decision ends this discussion The State Superintendent admits in effect—and it is true whether he admits it or not—that he has used his influence to secure the adoption of the series of Readers and Spellers which his brother and Dr Patterson are engaged in compiling When the Superintendent first announced his intention to favor the introduction of this series, I am confident that he had not seen a single copy of any of them Even at the time I write he cannot have seen copies of all the books he recommends If I am wrong, I ask the Superintendent to produce copies of all the books he so vehemently favors, or say he can produce them and if he refuses on account of the anonymous character of this communication, I shall endeavor to secure the services of Capital —whoever he may be—to plead my right to a hearing before him If I am right certainly no County Superintendent can fail to see the utter absurdity of passing by a host of books as good as these can possibly be under the most favorable circumstances and recommending a set that has as yet no material existence It is the prerogative of the State Superintendent to advise the County Superintendents in all educational matters I admit this and I need scarcely add a truism by saying he has no right to abuse this privilege from motives of personal friendship It is no doubt true as he says that the Pacific coast can probably produce as good literature as any other section of the country but notwithstanding the asseveration of Teacher it would take poets to write fine poetry geologists to read the history of past ages from the lip and trend of our rocks and the fossil remains of our alluvium and drift and [illegible] assume more than reason warrants when they assert that any but educators can write good school books

I assert again the utter improbability that Mr Simpson and Dr Patterson who are not known as school men and who make no pretension in that direction will get up a series of books that will reach even to the standard of mediocrity [illegible] Mr Simpson continue to [illegible] but let [illegible] experimenting at the expense of the public [illegible] experiment on their patients and [illegible] by exchanging occupations for a few weeks If Mr S doesn't succeed in killing all the Doctor's patients and the doctor [illegible] the [illegible] of Mr Simpson's poetry then [illegible] they are both qualified to [illegible] their [illegible]

The Albany Register says that Mr N Baum purchased [illegible] bushels of wheat last Saturday at $1 per bushel beside sacks and storage which amount to 1[illegible] cents more Mr Baum is understood to be buying for Friedlander of San Francisco

The entire time of the State Board of Equalization last Tuesday, was taken up in an examination of the Marion county returns It was discovered that an error had been made in footing up the number of acres of land returned this year and, as corrected an increase of acreage will be shown this year as compared with that of last

The amplest preparations have been made for the Linn County Fair, which will begin on Tuesday of next week, and continue four days The grounds have been put in excellent order and stalls and booths repaired Stock and articles intended for exhibition will be passed over the railroad at half prices A large attendance from abroad and a prosperous occasion is expected

The Albany and Santiam Canal Company call the attention of the public and especially the capitalists, and those desiring to engage in manufacturing, to their gigantic water power and water privilege Sixteen thousand cubic feet constantly flowing every minute, equal to 800 horse power, with from 8 to 30 feet fall, sufficient for the most extensive machinery, with ground on which to erect the necessary buildings etc

A Linn county man thinks he has done well at farming this season His flax had averaged seventeen bushels per acre, and he could get two dollars per bushel for it, and his wheat had averaged between twenty-six and twenty-seven bushels per acre, and was worth one dollar per bushel Although wheat has turned out exceedingly well in all quarters, flax rather stands over it this season, in the less favored localities

The harvest in Ochoco Valley is excellent, wheat turning out from 30 to 60 bushels per acre, and oats correspondingly well The grass has been abundant, and there are many fat cattle for sale The mining interests are looking up and it is believed that a large amount of virgin ore will be taken from the hills and gulches in the future Men with rockers have been drifting, making as high as five dollars per day to the hand, and occasionally more.

From Mr Kirk, of Brownsville, we learn that the Eagle Woolen Mills at that place have been in successful operation since the 7th of July last In July they turned out $2,800 worth of cloths cassimeres, blankets, etc In August the product was near $3,000 They have two sets of looms, but only use one at a time The mills are under lease to three first-class practical workmen, who have joint superintendence of them and employ 17 other hands The fabrics turned out rank among the best

A correspondent at Waterloo writes to the Register that Rev Yager, of that place, who owns through his wife, the soda springs there, has torn down the house over the spring, and partially destroyed the walk or bridge leading across the Santiam to the spring, thereby inconveniencing the public and endangering the lives of those wishing to pass to and from the spring Of course this action is destructive to the business of the place, and meets with the intense disapproval of the inhabitants of the little village

A VINDICATION

GOLDENDALE W T , Sept 3, 1873

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

We see in the Advocate issue of August 28th, a letter entitled "Klickitat County Seat," written by William Connell, a citizen of Portland

The letter contains an unjust attack on the character and conduct of the Rev J H B Royal charging him with being an irrepressible agitator and disturber of the peace and busying himself about affairs not in his line of duty, all of which accusations we positively know to be unfounded We can and do cheerfully testify that the Rev J H B Royal has labored acceptably in his Master's cause here at Goldendale, during the two Conference years last past through many privations which belong to a newly settled country He has been afflicted with disease and with many discouraging surroundings he has performed his duties as a Christian gentleman without murmur or complaint He has conferred his charities and offered the consolation of the Christian religion to the dying stranger and received unmistakable evidence that the dying stranger had abundant entrance into the Kingdom of the Just Mr Royal, in his modest way and in a manner peculiarly his own, informed wife and daughter father and brother of their bereavement and he has received the warmest of thanks from relatives of the deceased that their brother and son dying thousands of miles away from his childhood home, had received the charities and counsels of a Christian minister of the Gospel

We mention these incidents because we know them to be true and to prove that the character and conduct of J H B Royal is the reverse of that represented by William Connell in the Advocate of August 28th We know the Rev Mr Royal to be eminently a peace maker and we feel that we would do him an injustice should we let the attack of William Connell pass unnoticed

With us Brother Royal has always conducted himself as a gentleman and a Christian He has our entire approval and esteem

THURSDAY MORNING SEPT 18 1873.

THE STATE GRANGE

The proper officers of the various granges of the Patrons of Husbandry should not forget that next Wednesday the 24th inst, has been designated by Deputy Garretson as the time for the organization of a State Grange. The officers named Masters, Past Masters and Matrons of the subordinate granges are expected to meet on that day at Salem for the purpose of effecting the State organization and it is to be hoped a sufficient number of them will be present to give the organization a spirited send off. This order has already accomplished so much for the farmers of the Atlantic and Mississippi valley States that its usefulness is no longer a matter of question. In Iowa for instance the State Grange has made arrangements for the shipping of all the grain of the farmers to New York and thence to Liverpool. The shipments are made directly through the agents of the grange and the produce is to be handled only by them until it reaches its destination in England. The [illegible] commissions which grain has to pay ordinarily, before reaching the place of consumption, commissions to buyers, to [illegible] housemen, to inland shippers, and then again to the great shippers at seaport and finally to consignees, are reduced to the single item of the actual expense of the few agents that are indispensable to the work of moving grain and putting it into market. By this means the farmer is enabled to realize several cents more upon the bushel than they who still ship through the old channels. In a State producing so large an amount of grain as [illegible] this item of a few cents upon a bushel amounts to a very large sum in the aggregate of a year's work and is of vast importance to the entire community.

What this faithful order has done for Iowa, it can do for Oregon. This is essentially a [illegible] growing State, and the [illegible] upon whose solution depends the prosperity of our country is [illegible] of transportation. How shall [illegible] the cheapest possible transportation for our wheat? is a question [illegible] about the same, as how [illegible] the highest prosperity for [illegible]? The answer to one of these [illegible] is the answer to both. That the [illegible] of Patrons of Husbandry will be [illegible] the farmers of the entire [illegible] upon their industry [illegible]. They cannot control the [illegible] nor the means of in[illegible] so as to keep freight [illegible] the lowest rate that will [illegible] compensation for the [illegible] invested in ships and rail[illegible] that [illegible] can enable the farmers to [illegible] market without paying [illegible] to the various middle- [illegible] between the producer and [illegible] the [illegible] of both. This [illegible] in Iowa and are doing in [illegible]. There is no [illegible] why [illegible] it in Oregon. Only let [illegible] neglect their organiza[illegible] to be placed by [illegible] and they will find the [illegible] of great value in securing to [illegible] for their enterprise [illegible] giving them a social and beneficial [illegible] of very high character.

[illegible] TO THE TEXT

[illegible] is extremely anxious to [illegible] forget the outrage perpetrated [illegible] them by the ring, in the [illegible] of the resolution [illegible] of Senator Mitchell and [illegible] an article, in the party [illegible] to shuffle the issue from [illegible] that are wholly irrelevant, and in order to do so devotes one [illegible] to blackguarding Benton Killin, upon matters wholly unconnected with any question now before the [illegible], and a column and a half to whining [illegible] the OREGONIAN'S course in telling the [illegible] truth about the manner in [illegible] the infamous resolution was made [illegible] in the Republican platform. [illegible] simply the lowest kind of blackguardism to meet this matter by saying [illegible] one of the opposers of the resolution [illegible] ill-shapen boots, and it is wholly [illegible] whether the OREGONIAN'S con[illegible] the ring. These are not the [illegible]. The thing that the Republi[illegible] of the State are so indignant about is [illegible] they have honored with a [illegible] in the United States Senate should not [illegible] deceive them most shamefully, but [illegible] back when his crimes have [illegible] to light and bring the entire power [illegible] they have placed at his [illegible] to work a Convention of Federal officers dependent upon him for their position and then force [illegible], at the peril of losing their official heads, to pass a resolution committing the entire party to the worst of his immoralities, even to acts which the statute makes punishable by imprisonment in the penitentiary. This is no idle gossip, nor the fabrication of malice. It is the thing which he does not deny.

To distract the attention of the misrepresented and betrayed Republican party of Oregon from this dark record the Bulletin resorts to the blackguardism above referred to, and even to deliberate falsehood. It says the OREGONIAN has been assailing the reputation of women. What woman has the OREGONIAN mentioned or alluded to directly or indirectly? Is Hipple a woman? He don't act like it. Who is this woman that the OREGONIAN has assailed? Let the Bulletin answer or else acknowledge that it has made a malicious charge without foundation. We had not the slightest idea that any of the time ducks who have been striding up and down the country to work up this whitewashing job for the bigamist, were women. We took them for Federal officers of the male sex.

The Bulletin says of the OREGONIAN'S exposure of Senator Hipple's indiscretions: It is not the case of the pot calling the kettle black—it is rather the slop-bucket denting the scrap-basket.' Elegant newspaper style that. Will our cotemporary tell us in its chaste rhetoric, just why it called Senator Hipple a scrap-basket? And then we want to know why it digs him in the next sentence "Nice [illegible], isn't it?" You [illegible]

GOOD FOR ANY STATE

The Republican party in Massachusetts took a new departure in the Worcester platform. It was a departure which required a stout heart and an unflinching courage both of which the Convention possessed. We refer to the second plank which denounces all attempts on the part of Government officials to interfere in State politics by coercing their subordinates or others into the support of their own favorite men or measures. This is a bold denunciation of an evil which is felt in every State during the pendency of great political campaigns. The people of Oregon had [illegible] of it the other day in the Albany Convention where Federal officers were mustered in bewildering array. It was not done because this pernicious influence was directed against the Washburne party and in behalf of Gen Butler that this Republican Convention pronounced against this thing. The key note was sounded long before the Convention had a being. The best sentiment of Massachusetts's politicians the soundest teachings of the press of that State thundered against it throughout the campaign. It was said then—and it is just as true of every State in the Union as of Massachusetts—that it was no contest between individuals, but a part of that great struggle which is taking place throughout the United States between honesty and the manly traditions of the Republic on the one side and that insiduous poison of corruption which is everywhere eating into our national life on the other. The Boston Advertiser, one of the staunchest and best conducted journals in New England, pungently says on this subject:

It is not difficult to explain how it has come to pass that the central government should undertake to interfere with local politics. Men thinking alike on certain great questions must have party organizations for the purpose of concerted action. These organizations grow in complexity and power with the growth of the country, and one or other of them necessarily controls the Government. It is then that unscrupulous men see their opportunity, seize on the vast patronage and power which is thus placed at their disposal, put their retainers into office at home, and form a little army of dependants devoted to their fortunes, which from its discipline and compactness may well hope to govern that very party which raised them to power, and which, in name at least, governs the country. It is well to reflect where this tends. In all great political movements, the course of events is so slow, so gradual and so covered by old forms which have lost their original significance, that men often do not take alarm until it is too late. France is an example which stares us in the face. It is no secret to the world that whoever can seize on the organization of officeholders which centers in Paris can cause the provinces to vote as he pleases and it is in that direction that the path we are now treading leads.

It is good that the people be warned of this growing evil. The battle with this lusty infant of despotism must be fought some time, and as for Oregon, it may as well be fought on the 13th day of October as on any other day. The sooner it comes the better, for the neglect of the people gives its deeper root.

The New York Times thought proper a few days ago to offer a little wholesome advice to churches and church-goers on the subject of summer vacations for clergymen which, it thought, were getting to be somewhat frequent and rather too long. The editorials attracted much attention and elicited much hostile criticism from [illegible] religious journals which [illegible] to think that the secular press was profaning holy things in thus rebuking a clerical privilege. The Times publishes a letter from "one of the most worthy citizens of the State," wherein this incident is related: 'Two weeks since one of the oldest and most highly esteemed citizens of ——, died, and there was not to be found, in that town of 10,000 people, one Protestant clergyman to conduct the funeral services. They were compelled to send to a distant village to secure one while they have Baptist, Presbyterian, Methodist, Episcopalian, Unitarian, Reformed (Dutch) and Congregational churches in town."

The New York Times gives the following account of a New England family reunion: Nearly 1,000 descendants of William Tuttle, who emigrated from England to New Haven in 1635, held a reunion at West Haven, Connecticut, on Wednesday, September 3d. Members of the family from distant sections of the country were well represented—better than those near at hand. The meeting was called to order by Deacon Edmund Tuttle of Meriden, who announced the officers of the day. The President, Rev Ruel H Tuttle, of Windsor, Conn, delivered a short address, giving a history of the family. After singing a hymn of greeting composed by Miss Emily Tuttle of Middlebury, the Divine blessing was invoked upon the assembly. The whole party then sat down to a bountiful dinner. The exercises after dinner consisted for the most part of addresses from members of the family."

A Washington correspondent gives some figures from the books in the Revenue Department that furnish a startling commentary on the present extent of the liquor traffic. The collections from spirits for the fiscal year ending June 30 1872 were $49,475,016; the collections from the same source for the fiscal year, 187[illegible], were $[illegible] an increase of more than $3,000,000 instead of a diminution as has been stated. The receipts from spirits have advanced from $[illegible] in 18[illegible] to $52,000,000 in 187[illegible]. The collections from this source under the administration of the present Commissioner have increased to the amount of nearly $[illegible],000,000 each year. Here is ample cause for temperance lecturers and the congratulation of tax paying citizens who are interested in any improvement on the [illegible] system of collecting revenue on spirits.

Why didn't the Bulletin tell Senator Hipple the exact proportionate value of the precious metal of speech and silence before he went to Albany. He worked his own ram with his pleadings and his imprecations. His friends [illegible] the [illegible] man in the crowd [illegible] Hiram Smith [illegible] all of [illegible] of good [illegible] went at the canvass [illegible] done [illegible] that would [illegible] officeholders [illegible].

The Bulletin [illegible] Hiram [illegible] to make the canvass [illegible] people to remember the [illegible] speech [illegible] his silence [illegible] said a word in better season. Silence [illegible] worth a mine of gold [illegible] Senator [illegible] expressive silence [illegible].

The rarest joke of the season is the Bulletin dubbing Senator Hipple's scape-goat Hiram the Silent Man of Destiny. If He has lost that Taplician jollity which first distinguished him, then indeed he is an altered man in which event he couldn't stand for our gay Lothario of a Senator with any degree of fidelity to details.

LETTER FROM PHILADELPHIA.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept [illegible] 187[illegible]

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

After one's return from a summer vacation he is asked where he has been or if he isn't asked he volunteers the information as in the case where the writer has spent a season at Atlantic City and Cape May. Both places are favorite resorts of the Philadelphians, Cape May enjoying a slight preference and [illegible] quite justly. Its beach is more enjoyable [illegible] finer [illegible] pleasant [illegible] at Atlantic. Each place has plenty of large hotels and cottages which feed and sleep [illegible] from $10 to $15 per week. Atlantic City is built on an island about ten miles long, and from a half to three quarters of a mile wide [illegible] level of the sea. Its population in winter is about 2,000 and in summer it will average 15,000 to 20,000. There is excellent driving, sailing, fishing and [illegible] and the surf is [illegible] until early in October though visitors are few after the 1st of September.

Moons have waxed and waned for eight years since the writer left Oregon and his travels have been somewhat extensive embracing places of note in very nearly all the States and Territories and Canadas and he bears cheerful witness to the fact that he has yet to find a pleasanter spot in which to while away the summer months than he used to find on the headwaters of the Santiam river in the mountains east of Salem.

Summer excursions to any combination of principal resorts are abundant and comparatively cheap. The railroad lines verging from Philadelphia and New York issue books containing routes, points reached and cost for the round trips. The Pennsylvania Railroad Company's list comprises something like 250 different combination excursions at prices ranging from $5 to $70 aside from excursions to the Pacific coast. Of course the majority of them take in that hot bed of extortion Niagara Falls. For instance you can buy a ticket in June which is good until November for $31, which takes you from Philadelphia to Watkins Glen, thence to Niagara Falls thence up the Lakes and the St Lawrence river to Ogdensburg, and over to Lake Champlain, Old Fort Ticonderoga Lake George, Saratoga, Sharon Springs down the Hudson river by day steamers to New York and back to Philadelphia, $10 or $12 additional will enable you to take in the White Mountains. At Niagara you can board at the Spencer or Clifton houses for $3 50 per day, at Lake George for $2 50 and $3 50 at Saratoga for $3 50 to $5 and in the White Mountains you can find very agreeable accommodations at $5 and $6 per week. Guides, of course like Pacific Mail Steamship waiters, or Oregon horse-traders, will bite you most unscrupulously if they catch you napping."

The Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Company one of the powers of Pennsylvania has bought a tract of landing fronting on the Delaware river comprising some 20 acres upon which they have commenced the construction of an extensive ship-yard, dry dock, machine and boiler shops, &c., to be used in the building and maintenance of steam colliers in their coal trade. Their wharf will have a frontage of over 400 feet. The buildings will have iron fronts, and otherwise will be sheeted with boards and felted, then slated.

The business of the road, already immense, is steadily augmenting. Their main passenger depot, in the heart of the city, can lay no claim to comfort or architectural beauty, and wouldn't even make a decent average Long Tom hotel. In the vicinity of 90 passenger trains leave the city daily on this road, and they run through the limits at a rather painfully lively speed and horse cars and other conveyances, and pedestrians have to keep a weather eye open for them whether "the bell rings" or not. The passenger cars, generally speaking, are unexceptionably uncomfortable and cheerless and the employes are no more obliging or personally engaging than can be expected in consideration of the pittances doled out to them. However, the management is unquestionably able and successful, and its network of trains is handled energetically and with the highest degree of safety. The company has recently added very largely to its previous extensive coal mining possessions on the Schuylkill river; and with the Pennsylvania Coal Company, controls the coal interests of the State.

The price of coal has been steadily advancing since May last, from 10 to 15 cents per bushel per month. The retail price of red ash is now $8 50 per ton against $6 50 at this time last year, though the demand has not increased. The companies represent that millions of dollars were lost under the rates which prevailed last year, and that they have now simply placed it on a fair paying basis. The people cannot digest this solution. But the dear people, you know, are powerless.

CÆSARISM.

As brought out by the N Y Herald has proved a decided success—for that journal that is their editorial effusions upon this Midsummer Night Dream have very generally incurred the wrath and sneers of the Administration, the dignified rebukes and gentle disclaimers of the conservatives, and in many cases the sympathy and endorsement of the Democratic press throughout the whole country and even in Europe. In one of its issues a week or two since some twelve columns were devoted to reports of simultaneous special interviews with such leading spirits of the press as Jones of the N Y Times Bundy of the Mail Brooks of the Express Reid of the Tribune Murat Halstead of the Cincinnati Commercial, Horace White Chicago Tribune etc. Story of the Chicago Times flatly refused to be interviewed—said he wasn't that kind of a man blew his own horn in his own paper and referred the Commissioner to the files of the Times. Cæsarism is rather clever summer reading matter but in this case it is Hamlet without a ghost. Grant is no Cæsar.

THE NEXT CAMPAIGN.

Blaine and Morton are spreading their little nets as industriously as possible in the respective interests of B and M, and a certain Lieutenant General of former Grand Ronde Reservation repute, fully believes that his chances in 1876 are not to be sneezed at. Then too, there are strong grounds for believing that another military character did not champion the cause of "back pay" and increase of the Presidential emoluments from purely unselfish motives.

A CÆSAR MADE TO ORDER.

If the people really want a first-class Cæsar there is one to be had. It is Warmoth of Louisiana. He possesses the essential attributes and will seize anything to gratify his boundless political ambition. [illegible] An ordinary pen portrait will perhaps gratify some curiosity [illegible] of ex-Governor Henry Clay Warmoth. Imagine a man about [illegible] years old, [illegible] feet 10 or 11 inches in height of rather spare build black hair and eyes and a splendid mustache [illegible] mouth and features a stylish suit immaculate linen elegant carriage withal no appearance of flashiness dignified reserved an accomplished lawyer easy address a fine speaker a profound schemer with an iron will a chilled [illegible] nerve and an [illegible] public conscience. He [illegible] very moderately smokes [illegible] lives elegantly and either believes that virtue [illegible] his own reward [illegible]. He has laid up treasure where moth and rust [illegible]

This has called out Minister Washburne in an indignant denial that he ever wrote such a letter and puts bold Benjamin in a predicament.

DEATH OF [illegible] WRIGHT [illegible] yesterday evening Captain Daniel Wright quietly and peacefully breathed his last His death was caused directly from injuries which were sustained last Sunday morning, in falling a distance of [illegible] feet from a pile driver The terrible shock he received at the time of the fall and the subsequent deprivation of one of his legs—amputation being regarded by several excellent surgeons as indispensably necessary —proved too much for Captain Wright at his advanced age He survived the operation sixteen hours Deceased is an old resident of Portland He came to this State about the year 1851 as one of the Government contractors for opening the road from Astoria to Salem Since then Capt Wright has resided in the State and followed the occupation of general contractor He was a native of Massachusetts and [illegible] 68th year Many years ago he emigrated to California and was a resident of that State during the mining excitement of 1849-'50 During his residence in California—embracing a period of several years—Capt Wright was engaged in various branches of business and at one time was a wealthy man He was a man of generous impulses industrious, enterprising and persevering Now that he has departed this life his familiar face and well known form will long be sadly missed from the walks of the busy world A tender loving companion and many friends survive to mourn his sad and sudden removal from our midst

NEW PLANS—Mr Piper is now engaged in the preparation of plans for a new brick building which Capt Ankeny proposes to erect either during fall or early next spring This structure is intended to occupy the vacant [illegible] on First street, between the Central Market and the new building—rapidly approaching completion—which will be occupied conjointly by the Express and Telegraph Companies On the north side, the building last mentioned will constitute the wall for the new building and the Market will serve as the southern wall Only the front and rear ends of the edifice will have to be built In shape this building will be very similar to the one which stands on the north side and will possess the peculiarity of not having a square corner about it Where it is attached to the Market, an arch will be constructed like the building which stands on the south side of that structure Capt Ankeny has not yet determined whether he will commence the erection of the building this fall as the season has already far advanced

TIGER CO NO 5—The new engine house for this Company has been finished and ready for service, and to-day the engine, which will be used for the future, is to be formally received and housed This engine was used for some time by Protection No 4 during the earlier history of that Company, before the city purchased a new steamer, and has been thoroughly overhauled at one of the foundries of the city. It is in splendid trim for service. To-day she will be installed in due form in the new house The members of the Company have reason to congratulate themselves on the rapid increase in numbers since the organization, and more especially on the occasion of housing their engine They should feel proud of what has been accomplished in so brief a period, and whenever an opportunity presents, will not be found deficient in the elements of true firemen The new engine house is being furnished, and everything will be settled and in good working trim before a week

DINNER GIVEN—Mr. R. E. Bybee tendered his resignation yesterday as Deputy Prosecuting Attorney of this District The Police Court having been the principal field in which his judicial labors were expended for the past year, before retiring, he gave all the members of the police force a sumptuous dinner yesterday at 3 o'clock The dinner was given as a simple token of the friendship the retiring Deputy entertained toward the members of the police force, and the pleasant relations which had characterized their past association All the officers not detailed on duty assembled at the designated hour, where a jolly old time was experienced. By common consent, officer J D. Yates an old ex-representative of the printing craft, presided at the table, and conducted the formalities of the occasion to the entire satisfaction of all

CLEANING OUT—The Government dredger has been in operation at the mouth of the Wallamet river for nearly two weeks. Everything being new and comparatively untried, the results of the operations thus far made, have not been as satisfactory as desirable The machinery, by constant use will become worn and smooth, and then will be in a condition to render effective work On Monday the dredger loosened and removed about 300 cubic feet of sand and earth. When in good running trim, the machinery can remove about one cubic yard every minute Some delay was occasioned yesterday morning A snag became entangled in the dipper, resulting in the breakage of one of the 'guides' The slight damage was soon repaired and the work resumed

TESTING HOSE—Chief Engineer Bruen caused a number of sections of old leather hose to be tested yesterday afternoon at the corner of Morrison and First streets Two or three sections were coupled together and one end attached to the plug at the hydrant A stopple was driven firmly in the opening at the other end The water would then be turned on, and if the old hose possessed sufficient strength to resist the pressure of the column of water, it was rolled up and carefully laid away in cases of emergency If any of the sections burst, they were condemned and cast one side Most of the hose stood the test without yielding These old sections are about 11 years old and have rendered valuable service in the saving of property

THICK WALLS—The walls of the new brick building of Mr Quimby at the corner of Taylor and First streets the foundations of which are being laid, will be the thickest and better able to withstand intense degrees of heat than those of any other building in the city of equal dimensions The walls for the first story will be [illegible] inches thick built up solidly Those of the second story will be [illegible] inches thick with a space of four inches in the middle between the outside and inside walls Not only in the masonry of the walls but throughout this building is be constructed with special reference to being fire-proof

K OF P—INSTITUTION AND INSTALLATION—Major M P Berry Deputy Grand Chancellor for Oregon instituted Mystic Lodge No 2 Knights of Pythias in this city on Tuesday evening last with sixteen charter members and installed the officers elect as follows Edward H Stoltz C C [illegible] A J Marshall V C J H Lyon P George F Grant K R S [illegible] St John M E Frank Nicholson M F [illegible] Hall, M A W S James I G Ed Wilcox O G The Lodge will hold its regular communications on Saturday evening of each week at Druid Hall Front street

[illegible] HOUSE—About 9 o'clock yesterday morning a small frame building outside of East Portland was destroyed by fire The building was recently vacated by a patient who had been stricken down by smallpox and [illegible] the owner for his [illegible] As no fires had been used about the premises [illegible] it is presumed that the [illegible] some person or persons [illegible] doubt to get it out of the way [illegible] about $100

OUT AGAIN—The [illegible] who was thrown [illegible] weeks ago and sustained [illegible] is so far recovered [illegible] For [illegible] was despaired of [illegible] ful nursing and skillful medical treatment [illegible] is beyond danger [illegible] the right side [illegible] partially paralyzed [illegible] ficulty it is hoped will be [illegible] by use [illegible] he was not killed outright [illegible]

STEAMER SHO FLY—About one week ago the hull of the steamer Shoo Fly which narrowly escaped total destruction last spring in the basin at Oregon City was towed down through the locks to the lower sawmill What remains of her now is still at the mill where the cabin is being rebuilt The machinery and boiler also came down on the hull, and is [illegible] and put in running condition.

MARY BELL—The steamer Mary Bell came from down the river on Tuesday having in tow a large raft of logs for the lower sawmill There were about 400 000 feet in the raft Yesterday the same steamer went down the river towing a pile driver and a large raft of lumber A wharf will soon be commenced at [illegible] A Coast [illegible] and the driver and [illegible] be employed in its construction

NEW SHAFT—A substitute for [illegible] years has produced perceptible wear [illegible] shaft of the steamer [illegible] On the last steamer a new shaft was shipped from San Francisco It is [illegible] to put in this shaft [illegible] wheel when the [illegible] over and the [illegible]

NO QUORUM—Last evening the City Fathers were to have held their weekly consultation Only three members being present Messrs Pesser Lyon and Story besides the Clerk and Capt Wiley the Mayor declared the Council adjourned until the next regular meeting

TAKES THE PLACE—Having been overhauled and repainted the Fannie Troup steamed up from the boneyard last evening and took her accustomed place at the wharf She will take the place of the Lewiston for the present on the lower route

HIGH SCHOOL PUPILS—We are requested to state that all pupils desiring admission to the high school in the city district are notified to appear at the Central school building on next Saturday morning at half past 8 o'clock for examination

NEW ENGINE HOUSES.

Yesterday we called at the office of Messrs Purton & Williams architects and inspected the plans and specifications for the new engine houses of Protection No 4, and Vigilance Hook and Ladder, No 1 These plans are being draughted and have advanced sufficiently towards completion so that they will be presented to the Common Council at the next meeting of that body for its adoption or rejection

The plans for Protection No 4 are very similar to those of the building destroyed on the 2d of August From the plans we ascertain that the building will be made of brick 25x60 feet, and two stories high The first story will consist of the engine and sitting room and the stairway leading up to the second story This story will be 18 feet in the clear The second story will be divided off into an Assembly room 40x23 feet a Committee room 12x25 feet a property room and hall into which the stairway opens The second story will be 15 feet in the clear

The building will occupy the same ground where the other engine house stood—corner of First and Jefferson streets The same foundation will be used and such portions of the walls left standing which are not damaged Other materials formerly used in the construction of the old building that have escaped destruction or damage from the fire, will also be worked in the new edifice wherever they can be employed to advantage The new plans entirely ignore the hose-tower that stood to the rear of the other building The adoption of the carbolized hose in substitution of the old leather does away with the necessity of a tower in which to dry the hose after use In place of the hose tower the architect has substituted a bath room and water closets The front of the new building will be composed of brick and stone A mixed but handsome and unique style of architecture has been chosen In the center of the battlement at the top and front of the building, will be placed a shield Across this will be the usual symbols of the fireman—a torch, trumpet and hat Over the frieze below the second story will be placed in wooden block letters the word "Protection" Immediately below this word, on the key supporting the arch above the transom will be placed in large size the number 4' Soon after the approval of plans by the Council, the contract for the erection of the new engine house will be let, and work commenced without delay The plans for

VIGILANCE H AND L COMPANY NO 1

Are about half completed and are to be finished and presented to the Council at the same time those for the other company will This new building will be constructed of wood and is to occupy the same site on Yamhill street between First and Second where the old one stood before it fell a prey to the fiery element on that Black Saturday It will be 30x50 feet, two stories high The first story is to be 16 feet in the clear and will be divided into the truck room sitting room and stair case which leads to the story above The second story which will be 15 feet in the clear is to be divided off into assembly, committee and property rooms The style of architecture adopted will be the modern street gothic Two ladders and a hook—the usual emblems—made of raised wood and crossed at a sharp angle will be placed in the face of the center gable Directly across these symbols in monogramic style will be the raised figure 1 in bold and clear relief Above the transom of the middle door at the front entrance to the first story in large raised wooden letters will be the name of the company. Since the fire, the truck hooks, ladders etc have been temporarily housed at Willamette No 1's building and as soon as practicable the new building will be constructed

ARABIAN HORSES

THE MANNER OF FASTENING THE HORSE IN THE EAST—A SPLENDID COLLECTION OF ANIMALS—THE WONDERFUL ENDURANCE OF THE ARABIAN BREED

No Arab dreams of tying up a horse by the neck a tether replaces the halter and one of the animal's legs is encircled about the pastern by a light iron ring, furnished with a padlock, and connected with an iron chain two feet or thereabouts in length ending in a rope which is fastened to the ground at some distance by an iron peg such is the customary method But should the animal be restless and troublesome, a forelег is put under similar treatment It is well known that horses in Arabia are much less frequently vicious or refractory than in Europe and this is the reason why geldings are here so rare though not unknown No particular prejudice, that I could discover, exists against the operation itself only it is seldom performed because not otherwise necessary, and tending of course, to diminish the value of the animal But to return to the horses now before us Never had I seen or imagined so lovely a collection Their stature was somewhat low I do not think that any came fully up to fifteen hands—fourteen appeared to be about their average—but they were so exquisitely well shaped that want of greater size seemed hardly if at all a defect

Remarkably full in the haunches with a shoulder of a slope so elegant as to make one in the words of an Arabian poet go raving mad about it, a little—a very little—saddle backed, just the curve which indicates springiness a head broad above, and tapering down to a nose fine enough to verify the phrase of drinking from a pint pot, did pint pots exist in Nedjee a most intelligent and yet singularly gentle look, full eye a sharp, thorn like ear, legs fore and hind that seemed as if made of hammered iron so clean and yet so well twisted with sinew, a neat round hoof, just the requisite for hard ground the tail set on or rather thrown out at a perfect arch coat smooth shining and light the mane long but not overgrown nor heavy and air and steps that seemed to say Look at me am I not pretty' their appearance justified all reputation all virtue all poetry The prevailing color was chestnut and gray a light bay an iron color white or black were less common full bay flea bitten or pie bald none But if asked what are after all the specially distinctive points of a Nedjee horse I should reply the slope of the shoulders the extreme cleanliness of the shank and the full rounded haunch though every other part too has a perfection and a harmony unwitnessed at least by my eyes anywhere else Nedjee horses are especially esteemed for great speed and endurance of fatigue indeed in this latter quality none come up to them

To pass twenty four hours on the road without drinking and without flagging is certainly something but to keep up the same abstinence and labor conjoined under the burning Arabian skies for forty eight hours at a stretch is I believe peculiar to the animals of the breed Besides they have a delicacy I cannot say of mouth for it is common to ride them without bit or bridle, but of feeling and obedience to the knee and thigh to the slightest check of the halter and the voice of the rider far surpassing the most elaborate manege given a European horse though furnished with snaffle, curb and all I often mounted them at the invitation of their owners and without saddle rein or stirrup set them off at a full gallop wheeled them around brought them up in mad career at a dead halt and that without the least difficulty or the smallest want of correspondence between the horse's movement and my own will the rider on their back really feels himself the main half of a centaur not a distinct being.—Palgrave's Travels in Arabia

WONDERS OF THE COLORADO

A TRIP TO THE [illegible] OF THE CHASM—MAJOR POWELL'S SECOND SURVEY—A MARVELOUS REGION

A correspondent of the New York [illegible] writing from Karab Utah gives an account of Major Powell's second expedition to the canyon of the Colorado river, from which we quote:

THE CANYON AND ITS ENVIRONS

Nature's work in this canyon country is on the most magnificent scale. The plains are wide, the mountains high and the walls of perpendicular cliffs hemming it in unbroken and for many miles together impassable. The gorges are deep and the color intense. There is a prodigality of everything but water and the vegetable and animal life which cannot subsist without it. The Grand Canyon the central feature of the whole, is for 270 miles an impassable gorge whose sides range from 1,000 feet to one mile and a quarter in perpendicular height, cut through the solid rock by the action of the wild, impetuous river that flows through it. Its general course is east and west but it is exceedingly tortuous and irregular in its direction. Into it there break innumerable side canyons, whose united length is thousands of miles. Some of them run back into the country a hundred miles or more and as they as well as the Grand Canyon are for the most part impassable, the edges of the Grand Canyon cannot be traversed without going around the side canyons also. It is practicable to reach the brink of the canyon by any ordinary effort only at a few points.

ON THE VERGE

As soon as we had eaten lunch, after our arrival at the last-mentioned pocket, we proceeded to the brink of the canyon. Our view was obstructed by cliffs, or gulches, till we arrived almost at the very edge of the above so that our first sight of it revealed it in all its mighty grandeur. We had looked across and seen the top of the wall on the opposite side. We had indeed seen as much as that when we were at Pipe—not the wall at To-ro-weap but further up the canyon. But we had had no view which gave us any idea of the vastness of the [illegible]. When we were 100 yards away a sharp bend in the course of the stream appeared before us, and the gorge suddenly [illegible] almost as if the very crust of the earth had been [illegible] rent asunder. We stop [illegible] silence upon the won[illegible]. But still we do not yet com[illegible] of the power the grand [illegible] we all of it before our eyes. We go forward to the very edge, and creeping out on a projecting cliff, look directly down [illegible] in its rocky bed, 3,000 [illegible] standing-place. Although the [illegible] has a volume equal, at least, to the Ohio [illegible] is it that we see but a [illegible] of sheen, like a little rivulet or [illegible] the size of a man by the [illegible], I am told, is invisible from our [illegible] before the eye, which [illegible] as an object. Yet the [illegible] with such force that its motion can be [illegible] and what appear to be only [illegible] on its surface. Mr Hillers, who came [illegible] canyon in one of the boats, tells [illegible] there are [illegible] waves and swift rapids that [illegible] along with [illegible] speed, and a [illegible] that is terrible to the navigator [illegible] believe, for the roar of the [illegible] bounds and echoes from wall to wall [illegible] the point where we stand, in[illegible] the impression on the [illegible] of sight. [illegible] directly over the river but [illegible] to consider and examine we [illegible] 300 or 400 yards back from [illegible]. The opposite wall recedes [illegible]. The walls do not, how[illegible] by a regular angle or inclination [illegible] of steep terraces, some very [illegible] and some quite wide. Between the [illegible] they shoot up perpendicularly hundreds of feet at a [illegible] leap. We judge the chasm [illegible] feet [illegible] at the top from [illegible] we stand, so it can be perceived that the [illegible] from bottom to top is very [illegible]. We [illegible] the whole of the afternoon [illegible] the verge of the canyon se[illegible] the most favorable points of view re[illegible] newly new revelations of mag[illegible] and new impressions of grandeur.

THE CANYON AND NIAGARA

[illegible] is something in the character of the im[illegible] made upon the sense, and feeling by the Grand Canyon peculiar to itself, and diffi[illegible] of description. Perhaps comparison will [illegible] its real nature, though any close analysis of the [illegible] produced may not be attempted. At Niagara, the impression is one of [illegible] power and activity. The behold[illegible] at arm's length only from the [illegible] displayed and all around [illegible] are the evidences of its recent energy. The [illegible] below the falls is not so deep [illegible] movement of the whirling [illegible] is plain to see. It is not the [illegible] of the force, but its activity and the [illegible] of its might, that produce the emotion of [illegible] and sublimity. A mountain summit [illegible] is grand by [illegible] of its vastness, and generally there is no impression like that made at [illegible], of force and power in activity, for the river is too far away, and forms too insig[illegible] part of the scene. Nor is it produced by the [illegible] of the chasm alone for every one has seen other things giving a more distinct impression of great extent or size. I think the feeling is one of awe and wonder at the evidence of some mighty, inconceivable, [illegible] power, at some time terribly, majestically, and mysteriously energetic but now [illegible]. And yet the force that has wrought so wonderfully through periods unknown unmeasured and unmeasurable is a river [illegible] feet below, so far away that one never thinks of it as an agency capable of such a work. Nor [illegible] without study and investigation and reflection can it be conceived that its ceaseless motion through myriads of years may have eroded and worn its rocky channel through plains and mountains to such a depth that in places Mount Washington plucked up by the roots, as Milton's contending legions plucked the heavenly hills and thrown into the basin would not appear above the brink nor form a dam for the rushing river.

THE UPPER CLIFFS

I have mentioned only the lower and nearly perpendicular cleft of the rocky strata. The To-ro-weap has led us down to its brink and there rise all about us another series of terraces 1,800 or 2,000 feet high which approach in places almost to the edge of the narrow chasm on which we stand, and in others recede a mile or more. This second series of terraces form a part of the canyon chasm and it is only in places far distant from each other that the narrow plateau on which we stand can be gained. The upper cliffs are broken into beautiful shapes extending out into splendid buttes and head lands which are sometimes isolated except at the bases and stand as vast towers or castles beautifully painted and ornamented. The color of the wall below us is generally red resembling in a slight degree the Seneca stone of Washington, of which the Smithsonian is constructed. The terraces above us are generally gray marked in places by red and yellow. The effect at sunset in these hills especially in the distance as we see [illegible] looking up the canyon is superb and has a peculiar beauty.

The Shah's crowd were thieves and deadbeats, in addition to their other vices. A London jeweler who sent some valuable personal ornaments for the inspection of the Shah at his own request lost $50,000 worth of the baubles, and some of his retinue left an unsettled account with a Paris glove-dealer amounting to $350 which the French Government has since paid.

[illegible] which it is [illegible] encouraging [illegible] greater than it was at the [illegible] of [illegible]. The New York Independent [illegible] in the commercial column of which the foregoing facts are gathered says: One of the most gratifying [illegible] encouraging evidences of the general prosperity is the relative change in the condition of our exports and imports. For the last week [illegible] August the imports were [illegible] 000 less than last year while the exports were [illegible] 000 greater and $11,000,000 greater since the commencement of the year than they were for the same period in 1872.

Weekly Grain Reports

The New York Produce Exchange [illegible] (Bomb) of the 29th ult contains the following about the grain trade in different parts of the world:

The farmers' deliveries of home grown wheat in the 150 towns in England and Wales for the week ending August 9 1873 were 2[illegible] 099 qrs, at an average price of [illegible] 11d per qr against 36 [illegible] qrs for the corresponding week in 1872 at an average price of [illegible] 0d per qr and against an average of the corresponding weeks of the last ten years of 45,81[illegible] qrs at an average price of 52s 6d per qr.

The imports of foreign grain and flour into the United Kingdom for the week ending August 9 1873 were: Flour 64 [illegible]7 cwts wheat, 983 [illegible] cwts corn 53[illegible] 1[illegible]6 cwts oats 308 [illegible] cwts barley 87 647 cwts peas 7 971 cwts, beans 1[illegible] 788 cwts other grain 4 cwts. Total 2,14[illegible],890 cwts.

The exports from the United Kingdom for the week ending August 9 1873 were: Flour 1[illegible]1 cwts wheat 7 1[illegible] cwts oats 31 cwts barley [illegible]7 cwts peas, 201 cwts beans nil cwts maize, nil cwts rye nil cwts. Total 2,229 cwts.

The approximate supply of wheat for the week ending August 9 1873 flour included comprising the farmers' deliveries in the kingdom plus the imports minus the exports was equal to [illegible] qrs against an estimated average weekly consumption of from 400 000 to 42[illegible] 000 qrs per week. The supply the previous week was 364,828 qrs or a supply in two weeks from imports and deliveries of home grown wheat of 700,[illegible] qrs against a consumption in two weeks of 800,000 to 846 000 qrs indicating that the stocks in granary were reduced in two weeks 1[illegible] [illegible] qrs.

The Gardner's Chronicle (English) gives crop returns from 200 places in the British Isles of which 150 are below an average, 38 an average and only 11 above an average. Last year's wheat harvest was unquestionably a poor one. The returns so far this year are less promising than last. The tabulated returns are:

Crop returns.	Wheat. bu	Barley bu	Oats bu	Beans bu	Peas bu
Average	89	16	161	121	123
Below Average	157	29	56	16	13
Total	257	2[illegible]7	201	1[illegible]	17[illegible]

The returns last year were 11 per cent. above an average against 4 per cent. above average this year.

Mr J E Beerbohm's London corn trade list of the 15th inst. says: In the south of Russia the crops are no longer so favorably reported of as at first, and the shipments will be unusually late owing to the absence of old stocks and the comparative failure in the districts near the seaboard. The high prices at Marseilles are also calculated to divert the early shipments from the United Kingdom.

The wheat crop in a great part of Italy has been very disappointing and prices there have been rising of late. After many contradictory reports the wheat crop in Hungary is now at length pronounced to be comparatively deficient in quantity and quality and the rye crop in Austria shows a deficiency of 6 000 000 hects—2,06[illegible] 000 qrs as compared with average years, this being the result of the information gathered at the International Congress when it met at Vienna on the [illegible]th instant and was attended by about 1 [illegible] grain merchants from various countries. A large importation of rye will it appears be required and the high price of this article will necessarily affect the consumption and value of wheat. According to a report issued it is expected that there will be from 63[illegible] 000 qrs to 818 000 qrs wheat for exportation but it will be some time before any large quantities can be brought to market, labor being scarce, and the old stocks being used up all the wheat will at first have to be retained for home consumption. The extraordinary fact is, indeed announced in one of the reports received from Germany that some 8 000 wispels of wheat have been bought in Berlin for Hungary.

The visible supply of grain in the United States and Canada August 23d was 17 [illegible] 463 bushels embracing 4 981 857 bushels of wheat 9 8[illegible] [illegible] bushels of corn 2 987 114 bushels of oats and 1 14[illegible] [illegible] bushels of barley.

The exports of breadstuffs and provisions from the ports of Portland Boston New York Philadelphia and Baltimore for the week ending August 30 were: Flour 43 000 barrels wheat [illegible] 700 bushels corn 382,000 bushels rye [illegible],000 bushels pork 4 000 barrels and tierces bacon 2 811 000 pounds lard 2 [illegible]0 000 pounds.

Chicago elevators at the commencement of business on the 1st inst., contained 5 63[illegible] [illegible] bushels of grain embracing 1 361 197 bushels of wheat, 88[illegible] 831 bushels of corn, 692,58[illegible] bushels of oats 9 431 bushels of rye and 100 449 bushels of barley against [illegible] bushels one week ago and [illegible] 810 2[illegible]9 bushels at this period last year.

Milwaukee warehouses at the close of business on the 1st inst. contained [illegible] bushels of wheat [illegible] bushels corn [illegible] bushels of oats [illegible] 100 bushels of rye and 29 [illegible] bushels of barley.

New York warehouses contain [illegible] bushels of wheat 1 6[illegible] 000 bushels of corn [illegible] bushels of oats [illegible] 000 bushels of rye and [illegible] bushels of barley.

Our Wheat Market

During the day our market has been rather more quiet than for a week past though the demand for grain of all kinds is held at little if any abated. The quotations furnished for wheat are [illegible] per cental but we learn that purchases are made in the interior at an advance of [illegible] cents per cental for lots to be delivered here. The impression appears to be gaining ground among buyers that the present rates will hold good for some time to come. It is the [illegible] yet high [illegible]. The report that [illegible] agent was buying wheat in [illegible] partly true and partly false [illegible] [illegible]

There can be no doubt that [illegible] much by these [illegible] the present season in the matter of selling their wheat for all information [illegible] the market, the probabilities [illegible] the prices and the chance for securing the highest current rates becomes more quickly and more widely known through these associations. In addition the building, by farmers of warehouses at prominent points on the lines of transportation, enables them to hold their wheat in larger and better assorted lots, facts which also tend to enhance the [illegible] the best figure [illegible] think [illegible] [illegible]
